Urinary frequency is defined as urinating more than about 7-8 times in one day. The frequent need to urinate may occur during the day, at night, or both. As a metaphor it is used figuratively to characterise futile ego-driven battling in a pejorative or facetious manner that is often considered vulgar. Although the practice is usually associated with adolescent boys, women have been known to play the game, and there are literary depictions of adults competing in it. The image of two people urinating on each other has also been offered as a source of the phrase 97c2cf598f

Territoriality is only shown by a minority of species. More commonly, an individual or a group of animals occupies an area that it habitually uses but does not necessarily defend; this is called its home range. The home ranges of different groups of animals often overlap, and in these overlap areas the groups tend to avoid each other rather than seeking to confront and expel each other. Within the home range there may be a core area that no other individual group uses, but, again, this is as a result of avoidance. 97c2cf598f Kidney infections usually occurs when a bladder infection spreads, but may also come from bacteria in the blood. Feline idiopathic cystitis Feline cystitis means "inflammation of the bladder in cats". The term idiopathic means unknown cause; however, certain behaviours have been known to aggravate the illness once it has been initiated. inflamed and the urethral passage may have narrowed due to swelling but it remains open

("patent") and it can urinate to varying degrees, albeit in discomfort Feline idiopathic cystitis (FIC) or feline interstitial cystitis or cystitis in cats, is one of the most frequently observed forms of feline lower urinary tract disease (FLUTD). It can affect both males and females of any breed of cat. It is more commonly found in female cats; however, when males do exhibit cystitis, it is usually more dangerous

Training pants They are intended to be worn between wearing diapers and being ready to wear regular underpants. companies have gone so far as to introduce a liner inside their training pants, specifically in the area most frequently used for urination. This liner Training pants are undergarments used by incontinent people, typically toddlers, as an aid for toilet training. Training pants may be reusable and made of fabric, or they may be disposable. In the US, disposable training pants may also be referred to as "pull-ups", and in the UK, training pants are frequently referred to as nappy pants or trainer pants

Urinary incontinence also known as involuntary urination, is any uncontrolled leakage of urine. UI is an example of a stigmatized medical condition, which creates barriers to successful management and makes the problem worse. It is a common and distressing problem, which may have a significant effect on quality of life. The term enuresis is often used to refer to urinary incontinence primarily in children, such as nocturnal enuresis (bed wetting). Urinary incontinence is common in older women and has been identified as an important issue in geriatric health care. People may be too embarrassed to seek medical help and attempt to self-manage the symptom in secrecy from others

The main benefit of training pants over diapers is that, unlike traditional diapers, they can be easily pulled down to sit on a potty or toilet and pulled back up for reuse. The main benefit of wearing training pants over regular underpants is that if the person has an accident, they do not soil their environment.

Urinary tract infection Symptoms of a kidney infection are more systemic and include fever or flank pain, usually in addition to the symptoms of a lower UTI. Symptoms may be less clear in very young or old people. Lower UTIs affect the bladder (cystitis) or urethra while upper UTIs affect the kidney (pyelonephritis). common symptoms of a UTI are burning with urination and having to urinate frequently (or an urge to urinate) in the absence of vaginal discharge and significant A urinary tract infection (UTI) is an infection that affects a part of the urinary tract, which includes the bladder, urethra and the kidney. Symptoms from a lower UTI include burning or pain during urination, pain in the lower abdomen and the urge to urinate even when the bladder is empty. Rarely, the urine may appear bloody

They are designed to wick moisture away from the skin to prevent diaper rash. Some training pants also feature a wetness indicator line that allows the child to feel when an accident has occurred, supporting toilet-training awareness and independence.

Despite the shared terminology, cases of feline idiopathic cystitis, as opposed to human cystitis episodes, are sterile. In other words, they do not involve a primary bacterial infection. If upon investigation the inflammation of the feline bladder is in fact found to be the result of an infection, then it is described as a feline urinary tract infection (UTI) or less commonly, feline bacterial cystitis. In cats under the age of 10 years old, FIC is the most common urinary disease seen in cats and UTIs are very rarely encountered. However, in cats over 10 years of age, UTIs are much more common and idiopathic cases are much less frequently observed...

Loss of bladder control (urge incontinence) is a form of urinary incontinence characterized by the involuntary loss of urine occurring for no apparent reason while feeling urinary urgency as discussed above, and often occurs with this condition. Pelvic surgery, pregnancy, childbirth, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD), and menopause are major risk factors. Urinary incontinence is often a result of an underlying medical condition but is under-reported to medical practitioners. There are four main types of incontinence:

Territory (animal) as territorial marking or spraying when this involves urination, is a behaviour used by animals to identify their territory. Most commonly, this is accomplished In ethology, territory is the sociographical area that an animal consistently defends against conspecific competition (or, occasionally, against animals of other species) using agonistic behaviors or (less commonly) real physical aggression. Animals that actively defend territories in this way are referred to as being territorial or displaying territorialism

The most common cause of infection is E. coli, though other bacteria or fungi may sometimes be the cause. Risk factors include being female, sexual intercourse, diabetes, using a catheter, and family history. Additional factors that have been found to increase the risk of infection include urinary retention (delaying urination), insufficient water intake, use of spermicides as a contraceptive method, and poor genital hygiene.

In 2004, the first Bratz Babyz were made. The babyz were "Cloe", "Sasha", "Jade" and "Yasmin" (the first Bratz.) The dolls came with a changing bag, a nap blanket, bottle on a chain and a pet based on the girl's nickname (e.g. Sasha's nickname is Bunny Boo, so she has a bunny.) Later on, in 2005, "Meygan", "Fianna", "Cameron" and "Dana" joined the Bratz Babyz group.

Animals defend their territories to protect access to food, mates and nesting sites. Some species defend small sites while others control vast territories. Territorial dynamics may also change seasonally, often intensifying during breeding periods. Different species use a variety of strategies to guard their territory... 97c2cf598f
