== Introduction == f23062dc2c Crazy Bones was launched in the United States by Peter Gantner after witnessing the success of Barcelona... f23062dc2c Diviners would submit questions to deities regarding weather, crop planting, the fortunes of members of the royal family, military endeavors, and similar topics. These questions were carved onto the bone or shell in oracle bone script using a sharp tool. Intense heat was then applied with a metal rod until the bone or shell cracked due to thermal expansion. The diviner would then interpret the pattern of cracks and write the prognostication upon the piece as well. Pyromancy with bones continued in China into the Zhou dynasty, but the questions and prognostications were increasingly written with brushes and cinnabar ink, which degraded over time. f23062dc2c == Recording and release == f23062dc2c == Description == f23062dc2c
