In order for the arbitrage to work, there must be some means to reduce, eliminate, or reverse whatever savings could be achieved by purchasing the car in the lower-priced territory. Examples of such barriers include regulations preventing import or requiring costly vehicle modifications. In some countries, such as Vietnam, the import of grey-market vehicles has largely been banned. Car makers frequently arbitrage markets, setting the price according to local market conditions so the same vehicle will have different real prices in different territories. Grey import vehicles circumvent this profit-maximization strategy. Car makers and local distributors sometimes regard grey imports as a threat to their network of franchised dealerships, but independent distributors do not since more cars of an odd brand bring in money from service and spare parts.

Grey import vehicle The synonymous term parallel import is sometimes substituted. Grey import vehicles are new or used motor vehicles legally imported from another country through channels other than the maker's official distribution Grey import vehicles are new or used motor vehicles legally imported from another country through channels other than the maker's official distribution system or a third-party channel officially authorized by the manufacturer
