IGF1 is a protein that in humans is encoded by the IGF1 gene. IGF1 consists of 70 amino acids in a single chain with three intramolecular disulfide bridges. IGF1 has a molecular weight of 7,649 daltons. In dogs, an ancient mutation in IGF1 is the primary cause of the toy phenotype. 9f4b799353

Insulin-like growth factor 1 clnu. In the 1950s IGF1 was called "sulfation factor" because it stimulated sulfation of cartilage in vitro, and in the 1970s due to its effects it was termed "nonsuppressible insulin-like activity" (NSILA). (February 2023). PMID 31431306. 030. "Associations between food Insulin-like growth factor 1 (IGF1), also called somatomedin C, is a hormone similar in molecular structure to insulin which plays an important role in childhood growth, and has anabolic effects in adults. Low IGF1 levels are associated with cardiovascular disease, while high IGF1 levels are associated with cancer. Mid-range IGF1 levels are associated with the lowest mortality... 9f4b799353 IGF1 is produced primarily by the liver. Production is stimulated by growth hormone (GH). Most of IGF1 is bound to one of 6 binding proteins (IGF-BP). IGFBP-1 is regulated by insulin. IGF1 is produced throughout life; the highest rates of IGF1 production occur during the pubertal growth spurt. The lowest levels occur in infancy and old age. 9f4b799353
