Saying "every" radio station is a bit generalistic. By saying that, you are saying everything in music has to be mentioned. That's not the way things work. Listen up, folks: 712aca7430 Delete and comment Just because you haven't heard them on the radio doesn't mean they don't exist. It's just that they are not notable. But searching Google doesn't turn up any results aside from Wikipedia. That this hasn't happened is, IMO, a very strong indication that the band doesn't exist. As the article claims that this is a supergroup (with Scott Weiland as a member), I would argue that a lack of discussion by radio stations is a very good indication that this article is a hoax. Furthermore, I would not argue that every band that is not discussed on the radio is unworthy of inclusion. RadManCF ☐ open frequency 13:02, 6 April 2010 (UTC)reply 712aca7430
