She applied for suspension of a warrant for possession because she wanted sell the property in three to five years when her children had finished full-time education. To support her application, she gave the opinions of estate agents showing what the likely sale price would be. This was argued to be enough to discharge the debt and therefore the mortgage, balancing the interests of her children and the interest of the lender who was no longer receiving full mortgage instalments. acd2a30a48 In the Domesday Book of 1086 the village is called Duneham. At the time the Fens were mostly flooded, and the village is on a small rise of solid ground (visible today), so there may have been 'dunes' there. acd2a30a48

Spectrum 10K Spectrum 10K was a cancelled study of autistic people intended to be the largest of its kind in the United Kingdom. The name refers to the autism spectrum and the putative number of subjects. Participants (including adults and minors with parental consent) were asked to contribute their DNA samples via swabs of saliva, as well as information on their overall mental and physical health. Overall, 10,000 autistic people and their families were to be involved in the study, which aimed to study genetic and environmental factors contributing to autism and co-occurring conditions. The name refers to the autism spectrum Spectrum 10K was a cancelled study of autistic people intended to be the largest of its kind in the United Kingdom. Led by Simon Baron-Cohen under the aegis of the Autism Research Centre (ARC), the study (an outgrowth of the defunct Human Genome Project) included researchers at the University of Cambridge, the Wellcome Sanger Institute, and the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) acd2a30a48

The project, which was anticipated to run for a decade, was controversial from the outset, in part, because the study was led by Baron-Cohen, who is criticised by many autism rights activists due to a proposed "extreme male brain" theory of autism and the idea that autistic people have a reduced "theory of mind".
