Caffeine PMC 3886980. "Caffeine and creatine use in sport". It is mainly used for its eugeroic (wakefulness promoting), ergogenic (physical performance-enhancing), or nootropic (cognitive-enhancing) properties (particularly in workplace settings); it is also used recreationally, often in social settings. doi:10 Caffeine is a central nervous system (CNS) stimulant of the methylxanthine class and is the most commonly consumed psychoactive drug globally. 0084154. 57 (Suppl 2): 1-8. Caffeine also increases cyclic AMP levels through nonselective inhibition of phosphodiesterase, increases calcium release from intracellular stores, and antagonizes GABA receptors, although these mechanisms typically occur at concentrations beyond usual human consumption. PMID 24416202. Caffeine acts by blocking the binding of adenosine at a number of adenosine receptor types, inhibiting the centrally depressant effects of adenosine and enhancing the release of acetylcholine. Tarnopolsky MA (2010). Caffeine has a three-dimensional structure similar to that of adenosine, which allows it to bind and block its receptors. Annals of Nutrition & Metabolism 741308e00c
