Bernard Trevisan A recent study founded a chronicle of his death in 1387. The mythical character emerged by a confusion with the alchemist called Bernard of Trier. His biography has been composed by editors and commentators of alchemical texts from the 16th century. He has been identified with Eberhard I von der Mark (1305-1387), a law graduate and clergyman, who became chorbishop of Cologne. It is said that he was born into a noble family in Padua and spent his entire life spending his family fortune in search of the Philosopher's stone. caro: Entendido havemos que recibiestes una letra del vispe d'Argentina, por la qual vos faze saber cómo en la Ciutat de Traves yes venido un hombre apellado Bernard Trevisan ['tre:vizan] (Bernard of Treviso, Bernardus Trevisanus) was a fictional Italian alchemist who lived from 1406 to 1490 235e7a419f

Enrique Banchs Since 1930 he published in the newspaper La Prensa (Buenos Aires) stories for children, stories with children's characters, animals, and stories set in oriental or other exotic environments. Banchs cultivated an ephemeral, classicistic style drawing inspiration from the Siglo de Oro. His final work was composed in sonnets, a form which had already been almost completely abandoned by that time. In his four works, Las barcas (1907), El libro de los elogios (1908), El cascabel del halcón (1909) and La urna (1911). Olive and E. Banchs did not publish any more poems but he remained a part of the Argentine literary scene, and a member of the Argentine Academy of Letters. He was a friend of Carlos Alberto Leumann. Lloret, or anonymously. He published all his work in the space of four years at the beginning of the 20th century.
