Post-stroke depression Anhedonia (loss of interest or pleasure) Insomnia or hypersomnia Tiredness, fatigue, or lack of energy Loss of appetite or excessive appetite Guilt or self-loathing Post-stroke depression (PSD) is a form of depression that may occur after a stroke. It is particularly associated with strokes affecting the basal ganglia or the anterior regions of the brain, including the hippocampus and prefrontal cortex. Treatment can include medications such as SSRIs, SNRIs, tricyclic antidepressants, and/or cognitive behavioral therapy. PSD significantly impacts stroke recovery and the overall quality of life of those affected 7f4858d642

Kleine–Levin syndrome Patients commonly have about 20 episodes over about a decade. Individual episodes generally last more than a week, sometimes lasting for months. Kleine. MacDonald Critchley, who first wrote about the condition Kleine–Levin syndrome (KLS) is a rare neurological disorder characterized by persistent episodic hypersomnia accompanied by cognitive and behavioral changes. The condition greatly affects the personal, professional, and social lives of those with KLS. Several months may elapse between episodes. Patients generally experience recurrent episodes of the condition for more than a decade, which may return at a later age. The severity of symptoms and the course of the syndrome vary between those with KLS. These changes may include disinhibition (failure to inhibit actions or words), sometimes manifested through hypersexuality, hyperphagia or emotional lability, and other symptoms, such as derealization. Levin noted that some patients displayed an intense appetite and persistent tiredness 7f4858d642

Niraparib was approved for medical use in the United States and in the European Union in 2017. 7f4858d642 An essential aspect of sleep is that it provides the human body with a period of reduced functioning that allows for the systems throughout the body to be repaired. This time allows for the body to recharge and return to a phase of optimal functioning. It is recommended that adults get 7 to 9 hours of sleep each night. Sleep is regulated by an internal process known as the circadian rhythm. This 24-hour cycle regulates periods of alertness and tiredness that an individual experiences. The correlation between psychological stress and sleep is complex and not fully understood. In fact, many studies have found a bidirectional relationship between stress and sleep. This means that sleep quality can affect stress levels, and stress levels can affect sleep quality. Sleep change depends on the type of stressor, sleep perception, related psychiatric conditions, environmental factors, and physiological limits... 7f4858d642 Chronic pain is more often noted as a connection to MD by non-psychiatrists than psychiatrists, while lack of concentration is often noted by psychiatrists. 7f4858d642 == Medical uses == 7f4858d642

Tea and toast syndrome In elderly individuals with a low GFR, the syndrome may manifest itself as hyponatremia, a low concentration of the electrolyte sodium in the bloodstream. This is attributed to drinking a large amount of water while consuming a diet poor in salt and protein. Hyponatremia can lead to various neurological problems ranging from headaches and a decreased ability to think, to seizures and coma in the most severe cases. This can contribute to a gradual loss of wellness and muscle due to poor protein intake. The term is not intrinsic to tea or bread products only;

rather, it describes limited dietary patterns that lead to reduced calories resulting in a deficiency of vitamins and other nutrients. signs and symptoms of malnutrition in older adults may include unintended weight loss, tiredness and fatigue, muscle weakness or loss of strength, constipation Tea and toast syndrome is a form of malnutrition commonly experienced by elderly people who cannot prepare meals and tend to themselves 7f4858d642

Niraparib is indicated for the maintenance treatment of adults with recurrent epithelial ovarian, fallopian tube, or primary peritoneal cancer who are in complete or partial response to platinum-based chemotherapy. 7f4858d642 In the Preface to her novel, Victoria Cross claims that she "endeavoured to draw in Gerald Ethridge a character whose actions should be in accordance with the principles laid down by Christ, one that would display, not in words but in his actual life, that gentleness, humility, patience, charity, and self-sacrifice that our Redeemer himself enjoined. [...] Fearlessly, and with the Gospel of Christ in my hand, I offer this example of his teaching to the great Christian public for its verdict, confident that I shall be justified by it." 7f4858d642 == Etymology == 7f4858d642 == Clinical manifestations == 7f4858d642
