In the modern era, zoologists have applied the idiom to the use of aggressive mimicry by predators, whether the disguise is as the prey itself, or as a different but harmless species. The novel is set in Northern California, an area where Rice lived a large portion of her life. Several scenes of the novel take place in a redwood forest. Rice explained that The Wolf Gift was not her return to supernatural fiction, stating that the religiously themed novels, Christ the Lord: Out of Egypt and Christ the Lord: The Road to Cana revolved around mystical events as well.

At San Diego Comic-Con, Rice spoke with MTV about The Wolf Gift: "It's about a young man who becomes a werewolf. It's my take on what that experience is like for that young man, to experience that transformation and how it works in his... e86bba1821 The Rod of Seven Parts is a boxed set supplement which details the history of the Dawn of Time in which the forces of Law went to war with the forces of Chaos to control the Cosmos. This campaign saw its climax at the Battle of Pesh, where the armies of the Queen of Chaos led by Miska the Wolf-Spider faced the forces of Law led by the Vaati, or Wind Dukes. The Wind Dukes were hopelessly outnumbered so they constructed the powerful weapon called the Rod of Seven Parts, which could kill an opponent even as powerful as Miska with a single blow. The Battle of Pesh resulted in a draw, with neither Law nor Chaos able to declare a victory. The Wind Dukes lost most of their forces, but in the last moments of the battle their leader was able to use the Rod to strike a glancing blow on Miska, but instead... e86bba1821

Orb webs are also produced by members of other spider families. The long-jawed orb weavers (Tetragnathidae) were formerly included in the Araneidae; they are closely related, being part of the superfamily Araneoidea. The family Arkyidae has been split off from the Araneidae. The cribellate or hackled orb-weavers (Uloboridae) belong to a different group of spiders. Their webs are strikingly similar... e86bba1821 The family has a cosmopolitan distribution, including many well-known large or brightly colored garden spiders. With almost 5,000 described species in about 200 genera worldwide, the Araneidae comprise one of the largest family of spiders (with the Salticidae and Linyphiidae). Araneid webs are constructed in a stereotypical fashion, where a framework of nonsticky silk is built up before the spider adds a final spiral of silk covered in sticky droplets. e86bba1821
