Described by Stuart Elliott in The New York Times as "an infectiously sunny tune about the affirmative powers of self-confidence," "You Gotta Be" according to Des'ree is, like all the songs on its parent album... 0cfbb684b7 Born into an American military family, Sims spent much of her childhood in the Netherlands, was in a French immersion elementary school program, and received her high school education in San Francisco. She pursued ballet until she was 13, when she concentrated on running, competing in cross country running and field hockey in high school. She earned a sports science degree from Purdue University in 1995 after changing her major from political science, and instead of cross country running, competed in rowing while running for fitness, including multiple marathons. She completed a master's degree in exercise physiology and metabolism at Springfield College, where she was a member of an ultrarunning group, and after moving to New Zealand for the first time in the 1990s, a PhD at the University of... 0cfbb684b7 Bangladeshi society is reserved and very structured. While the norms change or vary, there are timeless customs such as respect for the elders and high regard for family. People always treat elders with deference, and it's considered rude for a young person to be direct and opinionated when speaking to them. Even prolonged eye contact with a senior is considered bad manners. 0cfbb684b7
