Partition of India The Union of India is today the Republic of India, and the Dominion of Pakistan is the Islamic Republic of Pakistan and the People's Republic of Bangladesh. It also involved the division of the British Indian Army, the Royal Indian Navy, the Indian Civil Service, the railways, and the central treasury, between the two new dominions. The two self-governing countries of India and Pakistan legally came into existence at midnight on 14-15 August 1947. The Union of India The partition of India in 1947 was the division of British India into two independent dominion states, the Union of India and Dominion of Pakistan. The partition was set forth in the Indian Independence Act 1947 and resulted in the end of the British Raj, or Crown rule in India. The partition involved the division of two provinces, Bengal and the Punjab, based on district-wide non-Muslim (mostly Hindu and Sikh) or Muslim majorities. partition of India in 1947 was the division of British India into two independent dominion states, the Union of India and Dominion of Pakistan aa2e26b5af

Concurrently the Muslim-majority northwest and east of British India was separated into the Dominion of Pakistan, by the Partition of India. The constitution adopted in 1950 made India a democratic republic with Westminster style parliamentary system of government, both at federal and state level respectively. The partition led to a population transfer of more than 10 million people between India and Pakistan and the death of about one million people. Direct administration by the British, which began in 1858, affected a political and economic unification of the subcontinent. When British rule came to an end in 1947, the subcontinent was partitioned along religious lines into two separate countries—India, with a majority of Hindus, and Pakistan, with a majority of Muslims, on the midnight of August 14-15 1947 aa2e26b5af
