She made her debut as an actress when she participated in the Memorial de Maria Moura mini-series in 1994. It was a quick participation of just one episode in which the protagonist, Maria Moura, as a young woman, was replaced by her mother, Glória Pires, in the adulthood of the character. After that, she distanced herself from TV and the media, believing that she had no vocation to follow in her mother's footsteps. Cleo says she saw Gloria working day and night without stopping, the press invading her privacy and the phone ringing all the time, and that she did not want it for her future. She still says she just did not stand in the middle before, out of lack of will. Not that she had anything against her career, but it was something she did not think about, it was not in her head. A curious fact is that even the film being one of her passions, when asked if she wanted to be an actress, immediately thought of novels and theater, things that had no interest or curiosity. The main projects that marked her first mandate as President of Universidade Católica Portuguesa, between 2016 and 2020, were: the development of the project of national strategic interest between Universidade... The valley where São Paulo is located was initially settled by Portuguese settlers in the late 16th century, these colonizers mixed with the populations of local indigenous peoples from the Tamoio, Tupiniquim, Guaianá and Puri ethnicities, and later with enslaved Africans brought from the Congo and Gulf of Guinea. The mixing between these populations gave origin to the Caipira culture, which would later be spread north across the rest of the captaincy of São Paulo by the Bandeirantes.
