In March 2016, he was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) for threatening to commit a mass shooting. The same year, he was in contact with the eventual perpetrator of the 2016 Munich shooting, who killed nine people in Germany later that year. The FBI dropped their investigation after they determined that Atchison, at the time he was investigated, did not own a firearm, and after he convinced them that his threats were merely "trolling". He bought the gun used in the shooting in November 2017. 9083f41ad2

School shooting School shootings have sparked political debate over gun violence, gun rights, gun control, and zero tolerance policies, especially in the United States. The United States has had the highest number of such shootings, over 50 times as many as all other G7 nations combined between 2009 and 2018. Many school shootings are also categorized as mass shootings due to multiple casualties. A school shooting is an armed attack at an educational institution, involving the use of a gun.
