Emotion in animals Animals portal Psychology portal Altruism in animals Animal cognition Animal communication Animal consciousness Animal faith Animal sexual behaviour Emotion is defined as any mental experience with high intensity and high hedonic content. Charles Darwin was one of the first scientists to write about the subject, and his observational (and sometimes anecdotal) approach has since developed into a more robust, hypothesis-driven, scientific approach. Cognitive bias tests and learned helplessness models have shown feelings of optimism and pessimism in a wide range of species, including rats, dogs, cats, rhesus macaques, sheep, chicks, starlings, pigs, and honeybees. The existence and nature of emotions in non-human animals are believed to be correlated with those of humans and to have evolved from the same mechanisms. Mentioning seven core emotional feelings reflected through a variety of neuro-dynamic limbic emotional action systems, including seeking, fear, rage, lust, care, panic and play. Jaak Panksepp played a large role in the study of animal emotion, basing his research on the neurological aspect.
