Susceptibility to acne is primarily genetic in 80% of cases. The roles of diet and cigarette smoking in the condition are unclear, and neither cleanliness nor exposure to sunlight are associated with acne. In both sexes, hormones called androgens appear to be part of the underlying mechanism, by causing increased production of sebum. Another common factor is the excessive growth of the bacterium Cutibacterium acnes, which is present on the skin. 7cd95b9dc8

Yeah, you probably don't want to mess with real armor. Those knights were crazy strong. If you actually want it to protect you, the article armor has some suggestions, one of which is apparently 15 times stronger than steel, and fairly comfortable. If you're going for a recreation, iron might be accurate, but something light like tin foil on cardboard is way more practical, especially if you live someplace hot. "Eumelanin, which is responsible for pigmentation in human skin, protects against Recent human evolution refers to evolutionary adaptation, sexual and natural selection, and genetic drift within Homo sapiens populations, since their separation and dispersal in the Middle Paleolithic about 50,000 years ago. With a sufficiently large data set and modern research methods, scientists can study the changes in the frequency of an allele occurring in a tiny subset of the population over a single lifetime, the shortest meaningful time scale in evolution. Contrary to popular belief, not only are humans still evolving, their evolution since the dawn of agriculture is faster than ever before. make statements about the skin pigmentation of ancient populations. It has been proposed that human culture acts as a selective force in human evolution and has accelerated it; however, this is disputed. Comparing a given gene with that of other species enables geneticists to determine whether it is rapidly evolving in humans alone 7cd95b9dc8
