months and the solar year, while also accounting for the month, date, and weekday of the Julian or Gregorian calendar. Determining this date in advance requires a correlation between the lunar months and the solar year, while also accounting for the month, date, and weekday. As a moveable feast, the date of Easter is determined in each year through a calculation known as computus paschalis (Latin for 'Easter computation') – often simply Computus – or as paschalion particularly in the Eastern Orthodox Church. The complexity of the algorithm arises because of the desire to associate the date of Easter with the date of the Jewish feast of Passover which, Christians believe, is when Jesus was crucified. Easter is celebrated on the first Sunday after the Paschal full moon (a mathematical approximation of the first astronomical full moon, on or after 21 March – itself a fixed approximation of the March equinox) 46c0697e03
